Games help to build a muscular body. They include sound sleep which is a sign of good health.

Therefore, games are food for the body as knowledge is food for the mind. In fact, 'all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy'. Everybody likes games because these keep them physically fit and mentally alert.

Games help us to keep our body active and vigorous. They enable us to face dangers boldly. When a person plays games, his blood circulation increases and his digestive system improves. He does not fall prey to any disease. Games inculcate in us the spirit of sportsmanship. They also teach us courage and perseverance.

41. (a) George Orwell suggests eleven points to prepare a nice cup of tea. First of all, one should use Indian or Ceylonese tea. Secondly, tea should be made in small quantities in a teapot. Thirdly, the pot should be warmed beforehand. Fourthly, the tea should be strong. Fifthly, the tea powder should be put straight into the pot. Sixthly, one should add water with tea powder, while it boils in the kettle. Seventhly, after making the tea, one should stir it, or give the pot a good shake. Eighthly, the author prefers the cylindrical cup to a flat one. Ninthly, milk with Cream always gives tea a sickly taste. Tenthly, tea should be poured into the cup first before adding milk. Finally the author wants to tell the people that drinking tea without sugar will give the real taste.

(OR)

- (b) A. G. Gardiner in his essay 'The Rule of the Road' points out what constitutes true liberty. The rule of the road means that in order "to preserve the liberties of all, the liberties of everybody must be curtailed". When the policeman puts out his hand at Piccadilly Circus street, we must not think our liberty has been violated. If we are reasonable persons, we will reflect that if he didn't interfere, the result would be a commotion. We have to curtail our private liberties so that we can enjoy social order. Liberty is not a personal affair, but it is a social contract. It is an adjustment of interests. We have to preserve both the individual liberty and social liberty. By observing the rules of the road, we can judge ourselves as civilized or uncivilized. These habits of common place intercourse make our life journey sweet or bitter.

42. (a) Shakespeare picturises the various stages of a man in this poem. He says that the world is a stage. All of us are actors in it. We enter the stage, when we are born and exit when we die. Every man during his lifetime plays seven roles based on age. In the first stage, as an infant, he is wholly depended on the mother. The second stage is a schoolboy crying to go to school. The third stage is a lover who composes sorrowful ballads to his lover. The soldier, who is aggressive and ambitious is the fourth stage. He seeks a reputation in whatever he does. Then comes the fifth stage, with maturity and wisdom, the stage of a judge. He is firm and serious. In the sixth stage, we see a thin old man with loose pantaloons and spectacles. The last stage is an old and weak man in his second childhood. Slowly, he loses his sight, hearing, teeth and sense of smell. With this, the man's part in the play ends and he exits from the stages of his life forever.

- (b) During the attack of the French army on Ratisbon in 1809, Napoleon was anxious about the result. Napoleon was watching the war standing on a mound near the battlefield. All of a sudden, a rider appeared from the closed smoke and dust. He approached Napoleon. The rider was a young boy. He was severely wounded. He did not show any sign of pain. He jumped off his horse and told Napoleon that Ratisbon had been captured and then he himself had hoisted the French flag in the market place of Ratisbon. When Napoleon heard the news, his eyes flashed. His eyes softened when he saw that the soldier was severely wounded. The wounded soldier replied proudly that he was killed and died heroically.

43. (a) Pi was stranded in the Pacific on a lifeboat. As he looked around, he was shocked to find Bengal Tiger, Richard Parker on board. He was pinned by weakness having had no food, water or even sleep for nearly three days. His search for water took him dangerously close to Richard Parker, but nothing could stop him- neither Richard Parker nor the hyena. Strangely his thirst overpowered fear of Richard Parker and he went about exploring for freshwater. A little later, he succeeded in his search, when he found stacks of cans of drinking water. Pi came back to life and senses after drinking the elixir of life, the water gave him energy and he managed to overcome fear. Then, he realized that Parker, who scared him earlier, brought him peace, purpose and wholeness. He understood that it was Richard Parker, who helped him survive for 227 days. Pi left Richard Parker in a jungle and reunited with his family.

- (b) Ausable was a clever secret agent. He was very fat. He had a room on the sixth and top floor of a French Hotel. Fowler was a writer. Ausable was waiting for an important report concerning some new missiles. It could change the course of history. Ausable saw Max, another secret agent, in his room. Max threatened him with a pistol demanding the report. Ausable told that he would complain to the hotel authorities to close the balcony, through which somebody used to enter easily into his room. There was a sudden knocking at the door. Ausable smiled and told that would be the police. Max got nervous. He asked Ausable to send the police back and he would wait on the balcony. Then Max jumped through the window. The door opened and a waiter came with drinks. Ausable told Fowler that there were no police and Max would not return as there was no balcony over there. Thus, it was Ausable's plan to get rid of Max.

(b) The importance of Reading

Reading is essential for a child's success. Learning to read is a sequential process. Each new skill builds on the mastery of previously learned skills. The ability to read is a vital skill in being able to function in today's society. Reading is important because it helps to expand the mind and develops the imagination. It also develops the creative side of a person. It helps to improve our vocabulary and spelling both in writing and speaking. It plays an important part in building a good self-image. A lack of strong reading comprehension skills affects a child's success at school as academic progress depends on understanding, analysing and applying information gathered through reading. Therefore we have to develop the habit of reading at an early age. The greatest gift is a passion for reading.
