P. R. Sreejesh is affectionately called the “Great Wall of Indian Hockey. He has played over 300 international matches. He has been one of India’s most consistent players. He has helped India win several tournaments, including the Olympic bronze medals at the Tokyo and Paris Olympics. Hailing from Kerala, a non-traditional hockey state, 36-year-old Sreejesh has seen it all - from India’s failure to qualify for the Olympics in 2008, to not winning a single match in 2012; to reaching the quarterfinals in 2016, and finally securing bronze medals in both 2020 and 2024. He poured his heart and soul into the sport. Sreejesh was the saviour in the third-place match against Germany in Tokyo, where India secured an Olympic medal after 41 years. Three years later, he thwarted Spain’s late charge to secure another bronze in Paris. Former India captain and Hockey India (HI) president Dilip Tirkey hailed Sreejesh as the “God of Indian hockey.” A player who continuously evolved throughout his career, Sreejesh urged the younger generation to learn from the struggles of past hockey players and to appreciate the current success. As Indian hockey’s beloved goalkeeper Sreejesh calls it a day, Hockey India has decided to retire his iconic No. 16 jersey. He has also been appointed head coach of the junior men’s team. (OR)
